India is a big country. Many people live in a state called Uttar Pradesh, and lots of those people are Hindu. Hindus have an ancient celebration called Holi.

Holi is famous for having lots of color. The night before Holi, Hindus always light fires. They have to cut down lots of trees and burn wood, but that was really bad for the environment.

This year, lots of Hindus are trying something new. They use a special eco-friendly wood-- "cow wood". It isn't made out of cows. Actually, it's made from their poop! To make cow wood, Hindus take some cow poop, shape it into a brick, and let it dry.

The Uttar Pradesh government uses 300 tons of cow wood ready for the big fires. That's as heavy as 3 blue whales! This great idea is helping Hindus in Uttar Pradesh not harm the planet and enjoy their famous festival at the same time!
