When you eat in India, what do you need to know?

- When you eat with other people, do not touch their food.
When you touch other people's food, it becomes dirty in their eyes. This is especially true between men and women.
- Don't fill your own glass during a meal. The people next to you have to do it. You must do this for them, too.
- Always use your right hand to take food. Keep your left hand at your side and don't place it on the table. Most importantly, don't pass food to other people with your left hand.

These days, people have a busy life and can't have three meals on time. They get up late on weekends, but it's still too early to have lunch, so they often have brunch. They can have bagel with ham and eggs or some vegetables to make them full. After that, they don't need to spend time or money preparing their lunch.

Besides, people eat dinner late on weekdays, and they feel hungry in the afternoon, so they have afternoon tea in the afternoon. Afternoon tea is important to them in some companies. They have afternoon tea in the beautiful room or in a romantic shop. They also buy some special cakes and make some good tea for their friends. They can talk with their friends and listen to soft music at the same time.

People around the world give gifts and enjoy meals in great restaurants on Valentine's Day. However, there are other interesting ways for people to show their love. For example, in Denmark, men anonymously send white flowers and poems. So the women try to guess those names from poems. When the women know the answers, they will receive Easter eggs later that year. If the women don't know the name, they will have to give the men eggs as a gift on Easter.
