James didn't go to school last week. This morning, his teacher, Miss Lee, found he was absent again. At ten to eight, she called his mom. His mom said James had already left the house. But an hour later, Miss Lee still couldn't see James at school. She called again. This time, his mom said James' stomach hurt a lot on his way to school and walked back home to take a rest. He would stay home until noon.

Last week, his mom took him to see a doctor. The doctor said he had a stomachache because he often skipped breakfast and ate too much junk food. Eating too much junk food was not good. He should change his eating habits. The doctor gave him some capsules, two capsules every 8 hours.

To change a habit is difficult because old habits die hard, but James should try hard from now on.

Sam's Diary

Sep. 1st, 2018

Today, I am very happy to get an e-mail from my host family in the UK. They sent me some pictures we took there.

This summer I studied English at a boys' school in London and lived with an English family, the Greens. At their home, I learned the differences between Taiwanese and English cultures. At the dinner table, people in the UK always have soup before other food. But in Taiwan, we often have it as the last dish. When we are sick, we can go to a doctor at any time. But the English always call their doctors before they go to see them. Also, the two cultures are different in education. Taiwanese parents usually help their kids with their work. But English parents want their kids to solve problems by themselves. However, both Taiwanese and English families are kind to new friends. The Greens helped me a lot during my stay. I really enjoyed the life in London and learned a lot about English cultures.

culture 文化 education 教育 solve 解決 problem 問題
however 然而

(B) Call the doctors first.
(C) See the doctors right away.
(D) Drink lots of water.

C.

Come, little thing, come! You don't need to run;
We love your little meow.
No worries, please come near.
We'll get you some warm milk;
No one will hurt you here.

Come, little thing, come! You lost your way;
Your pretty white coat got all wet.
Stop, and stay with us today.
We'll dry your nice snowy hair;
Make here your home and have no fear.

And we will feed you fat and fine,
On milk, fish, and something nice;
Then you'll become a strong feline.
You can pay us back for all that,
By catching those terrible house mice.
