It was just another Friday evening. A man took his wife and their four-year-old son to see a movie. When the lights went out, everybody sat comfortably waiting to enjoy the movie.

Then some people saw a person standing in front of the big screen with something like a machine gun in his hands. One of them shouted, "He's got a machine gun!" Then sounds of gunfire were heard. The man holding what looked like a machine gun fell down. All the scared people started running and pushing each other to get out.

During the stampede, the man's wife, holding her son in her arms, was knocked over to the floor, so she covered her son with her body to keep him from getting hurt. At the hospital, the doctors couldn't do anything to save her life because her head was too seriously stamped. Luckily, the little boy was kept safe by his mother's love.

Also sent the hospital was the "gunman." The police found out he was a teenager and he often made YouTube videos about how he played tricks on people. The "machine gun" was just a leaf blower, and the gunfire was from a person with a real gun at the theater.

The doctors said he would lose his life if he didn't get a new liver. The man finally agreed to give his wife's liver to the teenager though he got his wife killed. The teenager can now keep on living with the woman's liver. It's really a terrible thing and a lesson for us to learn from.

- (C) Always put your family first because they are more important than anyone else in the world.
- (D) You can never know who may be the one to save your life, so be cool to all the people around.

The world is run by the Internet now. What is keeping the Internet so popular is the smartphones and all the apps that many people can't live without. The competition for the number one spot is very interesting, and many apps have come and gone as they failed to stay on top.

In the American market in 2016, the number 10 spot was held by Google App, which moved up four places from the year before. Twitter was next, but it dropped from the number eight spot it had in 2015. After that came WhatsApp Messenger, and like Twitter, it dropped one spot from the year before. Moving up two places from 2015, Spotify was ranked seventh. Then it was YouTube, which was fourth in 2015.

The top five spots in 2016 were Pandora, Snapchat, and three apps owned by Facebook. Coming in at five and four were Facebook Messenger and Pandora. Both also moved up a spot from 2015. Instagram took third, but that was down one place from the year before. Snapchat was third in 2015, but it moved into second in 2016.
